2004 CORTLAND FOOTBALL SEASON TICKETS

Football season is quickly approaching and the excitement level is building at Cortland!

Head Coach Dan MacNeill and his Red Dragons look to build upon ECAC Northwest playoff appearances in 2002 and 2003. This fall, Cortland hopes to continue its successful tradition and earn a trip to the NCAA Division III playoffs.

Cortland will play five home games this fall in its 6,500-seat stadium complex — a facility The New York Times called “...a new stadium worthy of a major university power.” The Red Dragons open with three home games in September, starting with intrastate rival Brockport on Sept. 4. The Red Dragons will also be at home once in October and will look to claim their third straight Cortaca Jug when they host archrival Ithaca on Nov. 13.

You can have a reserved seat at the 50-yard line for every minute of the action! Become part of the excitement and enjoy a fall filled with college football action and fun for a low cost. Order your season tickets today!
