BROCKPORT, N.Y. – SUNY Cortland sophomore Brittany Wiesner (Williamsville/Williamsville North) repeated as an All-American on balance beam to highlight the Red Dragons’ performances at the National Collegiate Gymnastics Association (NCGA) Division III Championships, hosted by SUNY Brockport.

Wiesner finished fifth on beam with a two-day score of 18.975. She was tied for seventh after the first day of competition with a 9.50, but moved up to fifth after scoring a 9.475 on Saturday. The top six finishers in each individual event are All-Americans. Wiesner placed fourth in the event as a freshman last season.

In other competition on Saturday, freshman Christine McAulay (Southbury, CT/Pomperaug) finished ninth on floor exercise with a 19.05 (9.60 + 9.45) and 16th on balance beam with a 17.25 (9.425 + 7.825), while junior Amber French (South Glens Falls) placed 11th on vault with an 18.90 (9.55 + 9.35). McAulay was tied for 11th in both events after Friday's preliminaries. French entered Saturday tied for second on vault.

In Friday’s action, McAulay finished 20th in the all-around competition with a 35.20, which included her beam and floor scores along with a tie for 34th on vault (9.175) and a 54th-place finish on uneven bars (7.00). French tied for 17th on floor exercise (9.55), missing qualification for finals by just 0.05 points, and sophomore Tanya Shull (Pipersville, PA/Central Bucks East) finished 46th on uneven bars with a 7.90.

Also at the meet, Cortland senior Lindsay Marranca (Kenmore/Kenmore West) was selected as the NCGA Outstanding Senior Student-Athlete of the Year, while Marranca and senior Emily Smuckler (Southbury, CT/Pomperaug) were named to the NCGA All-Academic Team. Marranca is a business economics and sport management major with a 3.70 cumulative grade point average. The national champion on floor exercise last season and the national all-around champion as a freshman, Marranca competed in one meet this season before suffering a season-ending injury.
