SUNY Cortland Women's Tennis
Final Two Days of ITA Northeast Championship
Saturday-Sunday, September 25-26, 2004; William Smith College, Geneva, N.Y.

GENEVA, N.Y. – SUNY Cortland junior Laurie Dorscheid (Fairport) advanced to the quarterfinals of the singles draw at the Wilson/Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) Northeast Women's Championship before losing to the eventual tournament champion. Dorscheid, seeded sixth, had won two matches on Friday, then defeated Elysa Kliman of Vassar in the quarterfinals, 6-4, 6-3. She lost to Hamilton's Sarah Coleman, the third seed, 6-2, 6-0, and Coleman went on to win her next two matches, both in straight sets, to win the tournament.

Cortland's doubles entries were both eliminated in Saturday's quarterfinals. Dorscheid and sophomore Amanda Husson (Middletown) won their first two matches Friday, but lost 8-5 to second-seeded Whitney Dolan and Madeleine Pauli of Skidmore. Sophomore Andrea TerBush (Liberty) and freshman Ashley Abar (Champlain/Northeastern Clinton) also won their first two matches on Friday, but lost 8-5 to top-seeded Kelly Graham and Debbie Sharnak of Vassar in the quarterfinals. Graham and Sharnak eventually won the doubles draw.

TerBush had lost her singles opener on Friday, followed by a win in the first round of the singles consolation draw. She posted two more wins in the bracket, 8-6 over Hamilton's Kaitie Donovan and 8-4 versus Julia Dobler of Manhattanville, but lost in the semifinals, 9-7, to Rochester's Shivani Kumar.
