MANLIUS, N.Y. – SUNY Cortland won its third consecutive State University of New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) women's tennis title and its seventh overall at the three-day league tournament, held at the Eastside Racquet Club. The Red Dragons won four of six singles title and two of three doubles crowns to finish with 31 points. New Paltz, which faced Cortland in five singles and two doubles championship matches, scored 28 points and finished second for the third straight year. Geneseo was third (15) and Oneonta was fourth (11) in the nine-team field.

Senior Laurie Dorscheid (Fairport) completed a career SUNYAC singles sweep as she won the league first singles title for the fourth straight season. Junior Andrea TerBush (Liberty) and senior Meredith McCaslin (Babylon) each won a SUNYAC singles title for the third time. TerBush won at fourth singles this year after two straight third singles victories. McCaslin defended her title at fifth singles. She was the sixth singles champion in 2003. Sophomore Ashley Abar (Champlain/Northeastern Clinton) won the title at third singles this fall after winning at fourth singles last year.

TerBush and McCaslin won at second doubles for the second straight year. TerBush now has three doubles titles to her credit – she also won at second doubles as a freshman with a different partner. Abar and senior Jen Hemedinger (Binghamton/Chenango Forks) also repeated as champions with a win at third doubles.

Dorscheid and junior Amanda Husson (Middletown) had their quest for a third consecutive crown at first doubles fall short with a three-set loss in the semifinals. Husson was the runner-up at second singles and Hemedinger lost in the semifinals of the sixth singles flight.

Dorscheid, the top seed at first singles, won 6-0, 6-0 in the quarterfinals, then went three sets in the semifinals before prevailing over Geneseo's Kristen Greiner, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. She won the title with a 6-2, 6-1 win over second-seeded Eri Yamakawa of New Paltz. Abar only lost two games in her three matches at third singles, and both came in a 6-2, 6-0 quarterfinal victory. The top seed won 6-0, 6-0 in both the semifinals and the finals, with her championship victory coming versus New Paltz's Katherine Ketigian.

TerBush entered as the top seed at fourth singles. After a 6-0, 6-2 win in the quarterfinals, she won a pair of tiebreakers to claim a three-set nailbiter over Geneseo's Caitlin Steinberg in the semifinals, 7-6 (8-6), 1-6, 7-6 (7-3). She earned the title with a 6-2, 6-4 win over second-seeded Margarete Fenton of New Paltz. McCaslin was seeded third at fifth singles, but won all three of her matches in straight sets. She knocked off the second seed, Rebecca Caoutte of Oneonta, 6-3, 6-0 in the semifinals, then beat top-seeded Jennifer Larson of New Paltz in the finals, 7-5, 6-1.

Husson was the top seed at second singles and won her first two matches before a 7-5, 6-2 loss to New Paltz's Dana Lim, the second seed, in the finals. Hemedinger, seeded second at sixth singles, won 6-1, 6-2 in the quarterfinals but lost 6-4, 6-4 to Brittany Gilligan of New Paltz in the semifinals.

At second doubles, second-seeded TerBush and McCaslin won their first two matches by 6-0, 6-1 scores. They claimed the title with a 7-5, 6-2 victory over top-seeded Fenton and Larson of New Paltz. At third doubles, Abar and Hemedinger were the top seed and cruised through three matches. They won 6-2, 6-2 in the quarterfinals, 6-0, 6-1 in the semifinals and posted a 6-2, 6-1 win over second-seeded Ashley and Lindsay Trifiletti of New Paltz in the finals.

Dorscheid and Husson won their quarterfinal match at first doubles, 6-0, 6-2, but lost in the three sets to Lim and Yamakawa of New Paltz in the semifinals. Dorscheid and Husson won the first set, 6-2, but lost the next two sets, 6-3 and 7-5.
